

WHAT'S IN A

Women engineers around the world are solving problems, managing people and projects, and driving innovation. And as their jobs become more global, SWE Magazine wanted to know if job titles and responsibilities are the same in different regions — or what the differences might be. Here we compare and contrast the jobs of two senior engineers, four engineering managers, and two software engineers from six countries. We gathered data about their positions to make comparisons easier — and we asked them to reflect on the paths they took to get to where they are today.

By Lisa Chiu, SWE Contributor

Circle